From the President

Bob Schreiner

I am pleased and challenged to serve as NCNA president, and I will work hard to represent members' interests. I hope I will hear from many of you.

My main priorities are to continue to improve our convention and show in the Hickory location, where we have the fine Hickory Metro Convention Center to house us. Second, I would like to find a way to reach out more effectively to our member clubs. Integrating our work with that of the clubs has been a long standing and elusive goal. We particularly need more people to be involved with NCNA business. As an example, we will be separating the secretary/treasurer position, creating a new post. I want to involve as many NCNA members as possible in contributing to the success of the ANA National Money Show in Charlotte in March 2003. Headed by Jerry Sajbel with Gregory Field as assistant chair, both NCNA members, the show will be the major numismatic event in North Carolina for a long period of time. Lastly, we are beginning to address the sales tax issue, as other states have successfully done.

Our show last October represented growth and improvement over our first Hickory show, but we still have much work to do to get the word out that this is a show worth traveling to. You can help by promoting it in your local club.

Many people contributed to the success of the show, and I am not going to try to mention them all. But I do want to especially recognize the contributions of the members of the Iredell-Statesville Coin Club, who handled registration, the dinner, and many local arrangements. I really enjoyed getting to know several of them, and look forward to working with this fine group of people again. Thanks are also due to Prabha Ramakrishnan, talented fabric artist, who spent many hours creating our spectacular new banner. See photo on page 5. See it in its glorious full color at the next NCNA Convention or on our website.

Note our new web address—www.ncnaonline.org. Hosting is provided courtesy of the American Numismatic Association. Our webmaster—David Boitnott—obtained the new address and ably manages all aspects of our website.

This is my last issue as editor of the Journal. The Journal is a major task! If it has been successful, I owe that success to the many fine authors who have contributed articles. What deficiencies there have been are all mine. Good luck to Halbert Carmichael, who resumes this duty. Send him you articles and club news.

Note that we are changing the official NCNA address—see the table of contents. I can still be directly reached at POB 2331, Chapel Hill, NC 27515-2331, email rcschreiner@mindspring.com.

I wish you all the best for 2002!

Convention Highlights

The 2001 NCNA Convention and Coin Show grew both in number of dealers and in persons attending over its first year at Hickory in 2000. Following are a few photographic highlights from the three day event.

Most visitors began with registration, ably managed by members of the Iredell-Statesville Coin Club.

The crowd on the bourse floor. Saturday was quite active, with smaller crowds on Friday and Sunday.

Greg Cheek, below left, provided an exceptional YN room on Saturday and Sunday. The exhibits and programs drew healthy crowds. Above, Dave Provost provides a YN program.

NCNA's new banner was created by Prabha Ramakrishnan, fabric artist from Beaufort. David Boitnott and John Page (R) prepare it for display.

Halbert Carmichael and Bob Schreiner present Dot Hendrick with a special President's Award for Perseverance and Excellence in Service to the Numismatic Community.

Cy Dellinger presents Halbert Carmichael with the 2001 John J. Pittman Memorial Award for Numismatist of the Year for his long leadership of NCNA.

A Report from the Exhibits Chair

by Dave Provost

The annual NCNA Convention once again played host to an interesting and wide-ranging presentation of educational exhibits. A total of eight exhibits in 24 cases made trips to the Convention's exhibit area a worthwhile endeavor.

Exhibit topics ranged from English shillings to modern casino tokens, from North Carolina obsolete bank notes to exonumia from the World's Columbian Exposition of 1892-93 — and quite a few things in between! It was a diverse mix and garnered many positive comments from show attendees and dealers alike.

David Boitnott took home First Place honors with his "Fayetteville, NC's Antebellum Banks as Illustrated by a Type Set of Their Notes" exhibit. The exhibit presented a nice collection of obsolete bank notes from the Bank of Fayetteville and the Bank of Clarendon. The Second Place prize was awarded to Halbert Carmichael for his exhibit entitled "The English Royal Family Tree, Illustrated by Shillings." Third Place went to Brad Ciociola for "The World's Fair Columbian Exposition – The Story of the Fair and Its Numismatic Interests."

This year's People's Choice Award went to Bob Schreiner for his presentation of "Promises to Pay: The Variety of Statements of Obligation on U.S. Obsolete Paper Money." The People's Choice Award is

The Young Collector Sets of the Modern Commemorative Series

by Dave Provost

Author's Note: At the recent NCNA Convention, I had the opportunity to give a brief talk about modern U.S. commemoratives to a group of young numismatists and their parents. My topic was the special collector sets produced by the U.S. Mint for many of the commemorative programs launched since 1993. As the talk was well received, and none of the YNs or parents in attendance had ever seen the sets before, I thought it might make a good article for The Journal as a way of introducing more collectors to these interesting and generally low-priced commemorative sets. And if you are an adult collector looking for something new to introduce to a YN, these sets might just be the thing!

In an effort to reach out to young collectors, the U.S. Mint introduced a "Young Collector" Set (YC Set) as part of the James Madison/Bill of Rights Bicentennial commemorative program. The set featured an uncirculated example of the commemorative half dollar sealed in a custom-designed folder that included information about Madison (our fifth president), the Bill of Rights, and coin collecting in general. It originally sold for $9.50.

The design of the Madison set featured cartoon-style illustrations of young collectors. This theme has been carried forward on all of the YC Sets released thus far by the Mint. The design is very appropriate, considering the intended audience, and brings a high "fun factor" to the sets. And the information included with each set is presented in a style and at a level that is perfectly suited to young collectors.

Following is an annotated listing of the YC Set issues that followed the James Madison set:

- 1991-1995: World War II Set — features an uncirculated clad half dollar commemorating the 50th anniversary of WWII. Original price - $9.50.
- 1994: World Cup Set — includes an uncirculated clad half dollar celebrating the first time soccer's World Cup came to the US. Original price - $10.50.

- 1995: Civil War Battlefields Set — includes an uncirculated clad half dollar honoring 100 years of civil war battlefield preservation. Original price - $11.50.
- 1995-1996: Atlanta Olympic Games — includes four different sets, each tied to the sport featured on the featured half dollar: baseball, basketball, swimming and soccer. Original prices - $11.95 each.
- 1996: Smithsonian Set — features a proof silver dollar, the first silver dollar of the YC Set program, marking the 150th anniversary of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, DC. Original price - $35.00.
- 1998: Black Patriots Set — includes an uncirculated silver dollar that pays tribute to role African Americans played in the Revolutionary War. Original price - $37.00.

In addition to these Young Collector sets, the Mint has also released special collector sets for selected commemorative programs. While these sets are not specifically targeted at YNs, the included information is presented in such a manner that all but the youngest collectors should be able to read, understand and appreciate them.

These have included:

- 1993: James Madison Coin and Medal Set — features an uncirculated Madison half dollar plus a small bronze restrike of the Madison Indian Peace Medal from the early 1800s. Original price - $13.50.
- 1993: James Madison Coin and Stamp Set — includes a proof strike of the half dollar plus a mint condition stamp commemorating the bicentennial of the Bill of Rights. Original price - $14.50.
- 1991-1995: World War II Coin and Medal Set — includes an uncirculated example of the clad half dollar and a bronze restrike of the Victory medal awarded to all U.S. service men and women who participated in WWII. Original price - $11.50.
- 1994: Capitol Bicentennial Set — features a proof silver dollar and an informative booklet on the architectural history of the Capitol Building. Original price - $42.00.
- 1996: National Community Service Coin and Stamp Set — features a proof strike of the silver dollar, a St. Gaudens commemorative stamp from 1940 and a booklet about St. Gaudens' life and achievements (the obverse design of the coin is based on a St. Gaudens medal design). Original price - $40.00.
- 1998: Black Patriots Coin and Stamp Set — includes a proof strike of the silver dollar along with several mint condition stamps of prominent African-Americans. Original price - $79.00.
- 2001: Capitol Visitor's Center Set — includes an uncirculated clad half dollar and historical background on the U.S. Capitol Building. Original price - $16.50.

Many of these sets had fairly small production runs of approximately 25,000 units and are thus not a familiar site on most bourse floors. I do tend to see at least one or two at about half of the shows I attend, however. The prices for most of the YC Sets generally show very little premium, if any, over the prices for the coins in their standard packaging. This means that for most of the half dollar sets, prices are typically between $10 and $20 dollars, and the silver dollar sets are between $30 and $50. Bargains are out there, however, as are dealers who charge a steep price for the sets as they tout their rarity. I have seen multiples of nearly all of the sets described here in the price ranges I've specified, with a little searching you should as well. For fair balance, however, it should be noted that the prices for the Black Patriots sets and the 1996 Atlanta Olympics sets are higher due to general collector demand for those particular issues.

Commemorative coins are a terrific way to combine coin collecting and an interest in American history. These special collector sets go a long way in making this combination attractive to young numismatists (of all ages!).

Happy Collecting!

North Carolina Numismatic Scrapbook Debuts

The North Carolina Numismatic Scrapbook (NCNS) is a new publication catering to the collector of obsolete currency and scrip of the Old North State. Researched, written and published by Jerry Roughton and Paul Homer, it will contain fresh material and information not available anywhere else. The NCNS is not affiliated with any organization, numismatic or otherwise. The sole intent is to share some of the research and information gathered with other serious collectors of like interests. The prime focus will be on paper issues, but other topics will be covered from time to time.

The inaugural issue contains illustrated articles on a scrip issue from Enterprise, fake signatures on Tyrrell County notes, a rare Fayetteville counterstamp on a half dollar, a short glossary of obsolete currency terms, and a historical essay of the Hamburg Mills scrip of Mount Airy.

The collector interested in North Carolina numismatic history will likely enjoy this small journal. Those merely interested in matching notes up with pictures in a book will be disappointed.

The NCNS will be published periodically, will consist of 12 or more pages, and be mailed flat (not folded) first class. This journal is available only by subscription at a cost of $15 per year. Prospective subscribers may obtain a copy of the premier issue for $1 sent to NCNS, PO Box 793, Kenansville, voted on by Convention attendees and is open to both the competitive and non-competitive exhibits presented at the show.

At the NCNA Convention dinner on Saturday night, I challenged all North Carolina coin clubs to follow the lead of the Raleigh Coin Club and prepare a club exhibit for presentation at next year's event. (The RCC prepared a three-case exhibit on the coins, paper money and exonumia of North Carolina.) A few club presidents were present and agreed to take up the challenge. I'll be looking for them as next year's convention draws near!

I'd like to thank this year's judges — Bob Schreiner, Jim Sazama and Judith Murphy — for taking the time to review the competitive exhibits and selecting this year's winners.

It's never too early to begin thinking about an exhibit for next year's show! NCNA members can contact me at dpncna@aol.com or at PO Box 354, Morrisville, NC 27560 for information.

Club News

The Raleigh Coin Club has established three awards honoring long time member and contributor Ted Hendrick. The club will make a $500 donation in Ted's name to the N.C. Gallery (part of the UNC-Chapel Hill Library) for the restricted purpose of expanding its numismatic collection. Also, RCC will donate $250 to the NCNA for the establishment of the Ted Hendrick Award to be given annually (when appropriate) to a dealer who is active in North Carolina and exemplifies what a dealer should be -- honest, helpful, supportive of the hobby and willing to pass on their knowledge to collectors. Lastly, the club will rename the RCC President's Award to the Ted Hendrick RCC Numismatist of the Year award.

The Lake Norman Coin Club had its first Christmas party on Dec. 17th. 38 members were present. Gifts were given - along with a wonderful meal. Officers elected for 2002 are Gary Duskie, president, Freddy Winkler, vice-president, and R.D.Thompson, Sec/Treas. Dick Sattazahn, president of the Rowan Coin Club, has two remaining sessions in his course Numismatics 101. The Club is also having civil war display and presentation in April 2002 by Kenneth Blevins of the Charlotte Coin Club.

New Token and Medal Collectors Club Forms at NCNA Convention

Carolina-TAMS, a new organization for collectors of tokens and medals with a connection to North or South Carolina, held its organizational meeting at the recent NCNA annual convention. Six interested collectors attended the meeting and discussed the new organization's goals and objectives. Also discussed were strategies for reaching interested collectors and promoting the hobby specialty. Over the course of the three-day convention, the new organization signed up eight charter members.

"There is no lack of exonumia related to North and South Carolina, but there is definitely a lack of published material on the topic," stated Dave Provost, organizer of C-TAMS. He continued, "I am hopeful that this new organization can fill a void in the field and serve as a vehicle to document the rich numismatic history enjoyed by the Carolinas."

C-TAMS was organized to encourage collecting of Carolina-related tokens and medals, as well as to promote fellowship among token and medal collectors, dealers and other interested hobbyists.

Another aim of the group is to encourage the research and study of Carolina-related material. C-TAMS will support this research by providing a publishing outlet via its Carolina TAMS Journal. The Journal will feature articles and updates on Carolina-related tokens and medals, including new research findings, as well as Society news and announcements. The Journal will be a quarterly publication, with the first issue to be mailed in Q1 2002.

Collectors of all ages and experience levels are welcome. Dues are just $8.00 per year for individual (adult) and club memberships; $4.00 for junior (< 18 years of age) memberships. Charter memberships will be available until December 31, 2001; life memberships are not available at this time.

To join the new organization, send your name and address plus first year's dues to: Carolina-TAMS, PO Box 354, Morrisville, NC 27560. A brief mention of your collecting interests is also requested.
